19) Muslims who shorten their prayers while on a trip are following man-made laws and not those of the Koran, as the Koran only recommends shortening prayer if you fear for your life.

Man made laws have been replacing God's commandment for too long. A very clear example of this is Muslim's shortening their prayer while they are on a trip. While the Koran has one verse about this, it clearly gives a condition about it which is missing from the man made laws.

Koran 4:101 When you travel (during war), you commit no error by shortening your prayers, if you fear that the disbelievers may attack you. Surely, the disbelievers are your ardent enemies.
